What ~~was~~ <sup>were</sup> the consequences
of the black death?

One consequence of the black death was 1 parents died. For example when the parents died because of catching the black death their children would be left 2
with no parental supervision leaving them orphans. ~~Therefore~~ furthermore the 3 black death would cause families <sup>sp</sup> being torn apart and the most importantly leaving children orphans. This meant that the social bands of society were broken and the children 4
were unable to earn money at such a young age meaning they couldn't afford to buy food or clothes. Also they probably could not take care of their house so maybe <sup>sp</sup> it 5 would mean they were homeless <sup>sp</sup>. Or if they were quite young they might have died themselves as they would not know what to do when they were hungry. Whereas maybe if they were older they could earn money by doing jobs. ✓

Another consequence would be that art and writing became more obsessed with death and sadness. For example when the black death spread people became more sad and depressed because families or parents (as I previously stated) were dying. Furthermore, people couldn't take their minds off all the tragedy as <sup>sp</sup> ~~the~~ <sup>the black death</sup> was wiping out thousands of people. In the society there was no hope left for them so they were sad all the time. This meant that ~~all~~ because they were thinking about death when they painted and wrote it was all about how they felt (sad) and ~~what was happening (deaths)~~. plays as there was not a lot of people.

In my opinion I think the black death led to more negative consequences including.

When the black death had killed most people the landowners lost a lot of their money and so they had to pay their workers more. This was because many people would stay shut up in their houses so not a lot of people wanted to stay there. and when people did they would pay very little due to the lack of people. This meant that lots of places were empty so they went out of business and left them unemployed. 5

Another reason is that the church service stopped. Because when the population of the community decreased the priests died and there was no one to run it. Furthermore religious people could not go to church to pray for people so others thought God was punishing them because they were not going to church.

In Conclusion I think that the black death was more of a negative thing than positive because the towns/cities were quite empty parents and family members died and even bad things <sup>8</sup> happened to church. Therefore I think alot of the consequences of the black death were mostly negative. So my second argument is more important than my first.

The Black Death was a disaster for Medieval England<sup>1</sup>. How far do you agree?

1 Even though there were some negative consequences for medieval England, the black death was not a disaster as there were some positive consequences.

When the black death swept out most of England's population people had better ideas <sup>2</sup> for medicine ~~developed~~. For example people knew this black death had a cure and so could many other illnesses. Therefore people ~~the~~ <sup>people</sup> population was now increasing due to the changes that scientists made by introducing new medicines.

Another thing was that in the church services women gained <sup>3</sup> some of the main roles. This happened because the black death killed most people including some of the men at church. So there was not a lot of people to play the parts. Furthermore women could be the main parts in the plays as there was not a lot of people.

In my opinion I think the black death led to more negative consequences including

When the black death had killed most people the landowners lost a lot of their money and so they had to pay their workers more. This was because many people would stay shut up in their houses so not a lot of people wanted to stay there. and when people did they would pay very little due to the lack of people. ## Assessment Q1

Explaining Consequences

One consequence of the Black Death was because farmland was abandoned trees had a chance to grow back on the land. For example

For example, farmers who died left farmland however, since the Black Death killed half of the population, ~~many~~ farmland was usually abandoned which gave plants and trees a chance to grow. Furthermore, ✓

This meant that more trees would grow ~~throughout~~ <sup>through</sup> ~~out~~ <sup>out</sup> ~~throughout~~ <sup>throughout</sup> England.

This was a positive consequence as it meant that more plants would grow which meant that certain animals can eat them and not starve to death.

Out of 5 marks you have get 4 because the explanation was ~~not~~ very clear so 2 marks = 1 mark for the explanation because you only did one example and 1 mark for challenge questions. Even better if ~~that~~ you did another example for the consequence.

Ques

One consequence of the Black Death was that afterwards, new and better ideas about medicine developed.

For example, ~~this meant that~~ scientists and doctors could possibly find a cure if the Black Death came back in future.

This meant they could be more prepared and more people could possibly be cured from the Black Death.

This is a positive consequence.
That will last a long time.

out of 5 marks 3 marks because the consequences
I don't know what it is you only did 1 example

got 3 marks

Monday 23rd November.

Even though there were some ~~negative~~ <sup>positive</sup> consequences for Medieval England, the Black death was ~~not~~ <sup>in fact</sup> a disaster, ~~as there were more positive consequences.~~

Firstly, individual's wealth was affected negatively. I know this because at first, landowners ~~lost~~ had to pay workers more. And lost money due to lower rent. This meant that <sup>people</sup> could not always have enough money to provide for themselves as well as ~~their~~ family.

<sup>it was also positive as,</sup>
However, ↑peasants seemed better off. They could ask for more pay because there weren't enough workers. Also, rents got lower. Since the disease wiped out half of the population, this meant many jobs were left behind. Therefore, ↑peasants had more opportunities.

~~Negatively, some people thought the Black Death was sent by God to punish people. Therefore, sometimes people would~~

~~punish themselves so God would <sup>not</sup> it need to do~~
~~it by whipping themselves. However~~

Negatively, some people blamed the Church for not pleasing God, and got up on the church, which seemed bad at the time. This meant that many people ~~did~~ not go to church.

Although, women did gain more important roles in the church because there was ~~more~~ a shortage of people to help. This is positive because it meant that women had a chance to earn money and provide for themselves and ~~family~~.

The Black Death also affected other areas negatively as the government introduced the Statute of Labourers to keep pay low. This made peasants very angry, and partly led to the peasants ~~revolt!~~.

However, new and better ideas about medicine developed. Which is good because the population would be more prepared if the disease ever returned. And hopefully not as many people would die.

There were some positive consequences of the Black Death, however the negative consequences were more significant.

What Were the Consequences of the Black death?

Q1) One Social Consequence was of the BD was that Christian parents died. For example children had to look after themselves. Further  $\rightarrow$  more, children became orphans and families were torn apart. This meant that bonds in society were broken and destroyed, and other adults would had been disappointed due to not getting any grand children because their children had been killed by the BD. The Black death was a disaster for medieval England.

One social consequence was that family were split apart and children were orphaned; this is causing children having to grow up without parents. But this meant that children could bond more with other stronger kids and not <sup>to be</sup> being alone. Not only kids will be frustrated; or disappointed adults will <sup>be</sup> due to the son or daughter dying therefore they will have a big zero: among of grand children. However if less people died we will defeat the BD! but our generation is shrinking and stopping the world from bonding with each other.

One environmental consequence was that art and writing became more obsessed with death and sadness, but farmland owners had abandoned
this meant that <sup>grow</sup> nature had a chance to <sup>grow</sup> back. Land owners had left their farm
due to being frightened of the Black death. Because of the BD it had an a ffect of our world everyone has become depressed and worried about dieing or having
to watch someone die or know ~~the~~ a family member had died.

The BD was a disaster
because of how it affected
our world and how people
changed and started to act
and children ~~with~~ might not behave as good because of their ~~birth~~ life.
